

Sheppard Murder Trial Witness Tells Of Marital Discord

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK
CLEVELAND (AP)—Pretty Marilyn Sheppard heard just a few months before she was murdered that her osteopath husband was "thinking of a divorce," a witness in the Sheppard murder trial testified today.

An attractive friend of the Sheppards, Mrs. Nancy Ahern, also swore on the witness stand that Mrs. Sheppard told her she understood that her husband qualified the statement by saying "they (the Sheppards) were right for each other and would try (their marriage) again."

Mrs. Ahern testified at the trial of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard. He is charged with bludgeoning his wife, Marilyn, to death in their bedroom July 4.

Over defense objections, Mrs. Ahern said she got this story second hand, that Mrs. Sheppard had heard about it from Dr. Randall Chapman, a Los Angeles osteopath and friend of the Sheppards, during a visit to California, last March.

Mrs. Ahern also reported that another phase of a conversation with Mrs. Sheppard last April dealt with a watch which "Dr.

Sheppard bought for a young lady from California."

The prosecution has claimed that this "young lady" was Susan Hayes, a pretty laboratory technician with whom it said Dr. Sheppard had an affair.

"x x x Mrs. Sheppard mentioned the watch, and I asked how she knew of it," continued Mrs. Ahern.

The witness quoted Mrs. Sheppard as saying that she either saw Dr. Sheppard write out a check for the watch or found an expense check for the watch.

"I asked her if she was not upset about the watch, and she said she was," she stated.

At the inquest last July, Dr. Sheppard testified that while he was in California, he and Miss Hayes attended a wedding with some friends. Miss Hayes lost her watch on this occasion, and he bought her a replacement, he said.

Mrs. Ahern and her husband, Donald, were the last two outsiders known to have seen Sam and Marilyn alive. They were dinner guests at the Sheppard home the night Marilyn was murdered. Dr. Sheppard has said she was killed by an intruder who also beat him.

Match Blows Up School; 47 Injured

ALLEN, Okla., (AP)—A remorseful superintendent, credited with heroism by his students, accepted responsibility for striking the match which accidentally touched off a deafening gas explosion at Allen High School Monday, injuring himself, the principal and 45 pupils.

Three of the injured, including Principal Freeman Pickle, are reported in critical condition. Twenty were still hospitalized today. The one-story brick school building was virtually demolished.

Looked For Leak

The superintendent, J.N. McKeel, who suffered shock, cuts and bruises, told a reporter: "I presume I set off the blast in an attempt on my part to find a gas leak. I had no reason to think there was a general leak."

Students were flung against the ceiling and blown through windows by the bomblike blast.

Fire Chief Harvey Butler, who estimated damage at $100,000, said gas apparently had been accumulating under the floor several days.

The 150 students in the structure at the time had high praise for McKeel. They said he helped hold up a collapsing ceiling so other victims could be rescued first. "There was a flash and then the explosion," said Dale Plunk, 18-year-old high school junior. "It was terrible."

Victims Dazed

Some of the victims, dazed and staggering, stumbled from the littered building, blood streaming from their heads. Desks inside were found lodged in the ceiling by the blast.

"When I went in there the kids were screaming and smoke was pouring out, and I just knew that some of them had been killed," said Butler, one of the first rescuers on the scene. "I still don't see how they got out alive."

McKeel explained he struck a match in search of the leak after students complained of a "gassy smell."

The school board meets today to determine where high school classes will be resumed.

He was a native of Port Huron but had lived in the Soo for 70 years.

Survivors include three sons, Herbert John, Herbert and Larned Ernest.

Okinawa Prison Convicts Cavort On Stolen Alky

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—Convicts who got drunk on stolen alcohol today brought new turmoil to Naha Prison, scene of a wild riot and breakout Sunday.

Thirty-one convicts are still at large after the stormy revolt of the prison's 852 male adult prisoners Sunday. Four escapees give themselves up and 16 others were nabbed by police. Officers expect to round up the others soon.

The latest flareup came after some of the inmates drank five gallons of alcohol stolen from the prison's medical stores.

They sang, danced, roamed their prison yard at will and refused to let carpenters repair the damage from Sunday's riot.

The big island was ablaze with light Monday night as nervous families of some 40,000 American troops on Okinawa followed orders to keep their lights burning. No incidents were reported.

Col. Roger Treed of Saint Mary's, Ohio, the U.S. provost marshal, doubled security guards Monday night and alerted military police units. No American MPs were used during the rioting.

Shuei Higa, U.S.-appointed chief executive of the Ryukyu Islands government, ordered the suspension of the warden and eight other officials, pending an investigation of convicts' complaints. The prisoners charged they were beaten and tortured and refused baths and reading material.

Nurse Killer Is Arraigned

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—Louis Maurice Smith, committed sex deviate and confessed rape-slayer of a 20-year-old Kalamazoo State Hospital nurse, was arraigned on a charge of first degree murder Monday.

Kalamazoo Municipal Judge Clark M. Olmstead set examination for Nov. 17 and ordered Smith returned to his Kalamazoo jail cell without bond.

The 18-year-old has admitted strangling pretty 20-year-old Marilyn Kraai of Holland, Mich., with a red necktie used by hospital inmates. Hospital authorities said Smith has a "long record of sexually motivated offenses."

Miss Kraai's body was found Friday night in a basement laboratory where Smith said he lured her to find a deck of playing cards he told her he left there.

Dr. Roy A. Morter, superintendent of the hospital, Monday ordered all female nurses removed from male departments of the hospital.

Yoshida Faces Split In His Party When He Returns To Tokyo

TOKYO (AP)—Leading Tokyo newspapers tonight declared it inevitable that touring Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida will lose a vote of confidence soon after his return to Japan, plunging the nation into a new Diet election campaign.

The predictions were based on a split in Yoshida's Liberal party, threatened by the expulsion Monday of two Liberal dietmen who had been working to form a new conservative party without Yoshida as leader.

France Rescues 5,000 Refugees From Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—French warships sped today to the rescue of about 5,000 Catholic Vietnamese refugees reported stranded on the tiny island of Tra Ly, in the Gulf of Tonkin south of the Red River estuary.

The refugees were said to be huddled on the sandy islet in danger from high tides. Among the ships sent to aid them was the former U.S. aircraft carrier Bleau Wood, now France's Bois Belleau.

Though the Geneva armistice agreements provides that civilians have until July 1955 to decide whether they want to live in South Viet Nam or the Communist-controlled North, the Red Vietnamese has been reported waging a determined campaign to keep the North population from changing sides.

Informed sources in Saigon estimate that some 20,000 Catholics now are trying to escape to the South from the region around Nam Dinh and Phat Diem. Because the Geneva agreement prohibits French warships from entering Vietnamese waters except on rescue or mercy missions, many of the Catholics were reported fleeing by their own means, with some of them putting to sea in flimsy boats under dangerous conditions.

Slayer Reveals He's Not Mute

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—John Schultz, 47, faced a murder charge today following a slaying that revealed he could speak, after years of silence.

Schultz's co-workers in a jewelry engraving shop considered him a deaf mute. He never said a word during his 13 years in the shop except in sign language.

Monday he exploded in a fury of anger at a fellow worker, Clyde W. Decker, 47, and fired a .25-caliber pistol bullet into Decker's chest. Then he amazed others in the shop by saying:

"For God's sake, where are the cops?"

Decker also was hard of hearing and Schultz told homicide inspector Al Nelder he became enraged because Decker had accused him of "faking" deafness.

Schultz said he lost his hearing after a 1922 illness, but could speak only with great difficulty.

Civil Defense Gets Air Alert

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—A surprise test air alert, the first on a regional basis since the dim-out days of World War II, summoned civil defense officials to their posts throughout the Middle Atlantic Seaboard area Monday night.

Six states and the District of Columbia were involved. The general public participated in Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia and the city of Baltimore and five surrounding counties in Maryland. The rest of Maryland was not affected.

In Pennsylvania, Delaware and the District of Columbia, only civil defense officials were alerted.

The purpose of the drill was to test the region's communications setup and alerting procedure. CD officials were told only that the test would come sometime between Monday and Wednesday.

In theory, the city of Norfolk was leveled by an atom bomb, 356,420 "casualties" including 197,685 "dead."

One civil defense spokesman said "This alert proves we can mobilize in this region within an hour."

Regional CD Director J. George Bruckmann said public cooperation in the venture ranged from "poor" to "very good."

Bonfire Claims Life Of Teacher

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—A runaway, driverless automobile turned a Guy Fawkes bonfire into a funeral pyre Monday night for Mrs. Joan Ellis, a teacher at a country school near Wanganui. Two hundred horrified persons watched as the woman burned to death.

The crowd was watching the bonfire commemorating Britain's 17th-century gunpowder plot when the car rolled from its parking place 70 yards away, picked up speed and plowed into the knot of spectators.

All jumped clear except the teacher. The vehicle knocked her into the fiercely burning fire, then rolled over the body, pinning it in the flames.

Kremlin Apology And Reparations Are Demanded

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia has countered an American protest over the latest cold war aerial incident with a declaration of absolute innocence, but U.S. officials indicate the Soviets haven't heard the last of the matter.

For the eighth time since the cold war began, the United States Monday demanded an apology and reparations from Russia for violence done American aircraft by Soviet planes.

One Man Drowned

Moscow countered with a claim that its planes were in the right. But the original U.S. note had promised that the Kremlin would hear more from Washington after investigation established all the facts "regarding human life and material losses."

The latest incident occurred Sunday over Japan's northern Hokkaido Island. Ten members of a U.S. Air Force photo-reconnaissance plane parachuted to safety. The 11th got snagged in his parachute and drowned.

The United States fired a stiff protest to Moscow, saying it expects the Kremlin "to make all such moral and material reparations as lies within its power."

The immediate Russian response followed the usual pattern: The Reds said the U.S. plane violated Russian territory and fired first, and that Soviet MIGs were forced to retaliate.

Other Incidents Cited

Again as usual, U.S. officials said this was probably untrue—that the U.S. plane never fired at all and at no time was close to Russian territory.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., America's ambassador to the United Nations, sought two months ago to focus world opinion on what he called a common danger to all nations "if these attacks by Soviet aircraft are to be allowed to go unchallenged."

Lodge was speaking to the U.N. Security Council, before which he laid on Sept. 10 a full report on the shooting down by Soviet aircraft of a U.S. Navy weather-reconnaissance plane over the Sea of Japan Sept. 4.

Again, the United States contended its plane was attacked without warning by MIGs. Again the Russians replied the U.S. plane violated Soviet territory and fired first.

Lodge recited six other incidents in which he said American lives were lost and American property

Spurt In Auto Plant Employment Offsets Seasonal Job Slump

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department says auto industry employment increased by nearly 80,000 in October to more than offset a customary October decline in factory jobs.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said Monday the auto industry pickup, sparked by production of new models, was chiefly responsible for an October jump of 17,000 in factory employment.

Nonfarm employment was boosted by 110,000 from September levels—to about 48,600,000.

President Fills Court Vacancy; OK Anticipated

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's nomination of U.S. Circuit Judge John Marshall Harlan to the Supreme Court, where his grandfather once sat, seemed headed today for easy passage through the Senate.

But trouble appeared to be brewing for the nomination of Atomic Energy Commissioner Joseph Campbell to be comptroller general—head of the General Accounting Office.

The White House announced the nominations Monday and said the President would submit them formally to the Senate today.

The White House announced the selections Monday and the President formally submitted the nominations to the Senate today.

Harlan's nomination to fill a vacancy left by the recent death of Justice Robert H. Jackson is Eisenhower's second Supreme Court appointment. Last year, he named former Gov. Earl Warren of California chief justice.

If confirmed, Harlan would join Warren and Justice Harold Burton as the third Republican on the nine-man court.

Campbell would succeed the retired Lindsay Warren.

Harlan, a tall and athletic-looking 55, lives in New York and since March has served as a judge of the federal circuit which includes New York, Connecticut and Vermont.

A grandson of a Supreme Court justice who bore the same name served for 34 years until his death in 1911. Harlan was associated with Atty. Gen. Brownell in a New York law firm from 1927-29. He is an experienced trial lawyer and has seen duty as prosecutor and crime buster.

Dingell To Ask Income Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—An across-the-board income tax cut which was sought in the next Congress by Rep. Dingell (D-Mich.).

Dingell, second-ranking Democrat on the House Ways and Means Committee that initiates all tax bills, said Monday night he'll file a tax cut measure on the first day of the session, Jan. 5.

The bill would increase exemptions for each taxpayer and dependent by at least $100 and would repeal a tax cut on dividend income enacted this year, Dingell said.

Marilyn Has Surgery; Joe Still Her Friend

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Marilyn Monroe's doctor says she is "recovering nicely" from minor corrective surgery. She is expected to be hospitalized four days after Monday's operation.

Joe DiMaggio, divorced by the actress two weeks ago, spent several hours at the hospital after the operation. He told a newsmen: "She's looking wonderful but I guess she's having kind of a rough time."

Asked about a possible reconciliation, DiMaggio said: "I'd rather not talk about that, but we're still very good friends."

Ore Shipments Lag; Season To Close Nov. 29

Iron ore shipments from Escanaba this season will be about one-third less tonnage than last year, although the season closing is scheduled for Nov. 29, two days later than in 1933.

There are 18 more boats scheduled to load at the Chicago & North Western ore docks at Escanaba between now and Nov. 29, the closing date, according to L. A. McMillan, dock agent.

McMillan said the hope here had been that ore tonnage shipped from Escanaba would reach the 4,000,000 mark, but that figure will not be attained. Stock piles at the mines are about cleaned up.

Lowest Since 1949

Total tonnage to be shipped from the C&NW docks at Escanaba this season is expected to hit 3,900,000, compared to 6,163,352 tons last year, the dock agent said.

The less-than-4,000,000 tons this year will be the lowest iron ore movement out of Escanaba since 1949, when the total was 3,816,000 tons.

Most of this year's ore came to Escanaba from the Menominee iron range, with some from Marquette range and very little from the Gogebic range. This year only 150,000 tons of Gogebic ore were diverted from Ashland to Escanaba, compared with 1,250,000 tons of Gogebic range ore shipped from Escanaba last year.

The Lake Superior Iron Ore Association reports that iron ore shipped from Great Lakes ports to Nov. 1 this year totals 57,858,433 tons, a decrease of 32,685,585 tons below last year.

October Tonnage Down

Tonnage shipped from Escanaba during October was 549,325 compared to 894,122 tons for the same month last year.

Total ore tonnage shipped from Escanaba this year to Nov. 1 was 3,648,061 compared to 5,731,336 tons to the same date in 1933.

The decline in ore shipping is general throughout the Great Lakes region and the total tonnage is 36.10 per cent less than last year.

At Marquette, ore shipments from two docks declined so far this season from 4,798,471 of last year to 3,143,646 this year; and October tonnage at Marquette dropped from 635,849 tons for that month a year ago to 493,615 tons in October this year.

Study Of Law Wins Temporary Freedom For Jackson Inmate

DETROIT (AP) — Elmo Jackson's study of law while he was an inmate at Southern Michigan Prison has earned him his freedom—at least temporarily.

Jackson, 52, was released Monday on a $1,000 personal bond by Circuit Judge Frank Fitzgerald to await sentence Monday. Originally he was sentenced to 10 years to life in 1942 for kidnaping. He drew up his own motion for a new trial.

Judge Fitzgerald said Jackson's case was "an obvious miscarriage of justice" and permitted him to plead guilty to the lesser charge if assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Fitzgerald indicated Jackson either would be placed on probation or given credit for time spent in prison. He was convicted of kidnaping Katy Singleton, a girl friend, who has died since.

Korean Veterans To Have Long Wait For State Bonus

LANSING (AP)—Michigan veterans of the Korean War were told today there will be a considerable wait before they can collect the state bonus voted by the people Nov. 2.

Brig. Gen. George C. Moran, adjutant general of Michigan, said his office cannot act on bonus applications until the Legislature has passed an enabling act. This probably will be late in January, he said.

The legislative act is needed to specify eligibility requirements and the application process. Until then, application blanks and other necessary forms cannot be printed.

Gen. Moran said his office is receiving more than 100 telephone calls a day from veterans seeking their bonus.

Wide publicity will be given the application process when it is ready, Gen. Moran said.

er would be placed on probation or given credit for time spent in prison. He was convicted of kidnaping Katy Singleton, a girl friend, who has died since.

James Mongrain Funeral Rites This Morning

Family relatives and friends and fellow students of both Escanaba High School and Holy Name Catholic Central High School filled St. Patrick's Church for the funeral services at 9 a. m. today for James J. Mongrain, 17, popular Escanaba High School athlete.

The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mongrain, 314 N. 13th St., was killed instantly Saturday evening when the car in which he was riding with four other students, returning from the Menominee-Marquette football game, left the road and struck a tree near Cedar River.

Father Francis Hollenbach, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, where young Mongrain had served as altar boy many years, was celebrant of the Requiem High Mass. Present in the sanctuary was Father Stephen Schneider, O.F.M., pastor of St. Joseph's Church, and 40 altar boys, all of whom received Holy Communion.

Over 400 students of both high schools attended the services in a body.

Members of the varsity football and basketball teams formed an honorary escort and close friends of the youth, John Wood, Lloyd Peltier, Pat Coyne, Don and Jan Marrier and Keith Molin, were active pallbearers.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Among those from out-of-town at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. John Lutri, Stephenson, Francis Dawyn, Milwaukee, Walter Peters, Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Phil McKinna, Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mongrain, Marquette, Mr. and Mrs. Leonce Mongrain, Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mongrain, Miss Peggy Mongrain, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mongrain and Mr. and Mrs. Rosar Lambert.

Discuss Use Of Industrial Site

The Escanaba Planning Commission, City Council and Port Authority will meet at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in City Hall to discuss planning in connection with the best utilization of city-owned industrial property in North Escanaba.

It will be a regular meeting of the Planning Commission and Chairman Jesse Pomazal will preside.

The planning Commission suggested the discussion meeting of the three municipal bodies after it had been in doubt concerning what the future might hold in development of the north bay shore property, which the city acquired from the federal government following World War II.

Possible future effect on this community of the St. Lawrence Seaway and the best use of city-owned shore frontage for industries will be discussed by the group; together with the prospect for development (commercial and industrial) of city-owned land along US-2-41.

Mayor Harlan Yelland heads the City Council, and Chairman B. J. Gallagher the Port Authority.

Rotary Host To Potato Growers

Delta County potato growers were guests of the Escanaba Rotary Club at its annual luncheon meeting honoring the county potato champions, held Monday noon at the Delta Hotel. Rotary President Denis McGinn presided and welcomed the growers.

In behalf of the potato growers, Grey Knaus of Cornell expressed the appreciation of the growers and invited the Rotarians to the annual venison banquet sponsored by the potato champions to be held the evening of Dec. 14 at the Cornell Town Hall.

Fred Bernhardt Delta County 4-H agent, introduced the 4-H members who made outstanding records this year. They included Miss Jean Ford; Kenneth, Rodney, Leslie and James Schire; David Woodard Clyde Sundquist, John Knaus, Gerald and Vernon Ford.

The potato growers were introduced by J. L. Heirman, Delta agricultural agent, who explained that because of the good weather many of the growers were busy on the farm were unable to attend the meeting. Present were Clarence, Sundquist, Danforth, Lewellyn Larson, Danforth; Andy Barr, Bark River; Herman Bittner, Cornell; Vern Wick, Clayton Ford Grey Knaus, and August Lundgaard, the "mayor" of Cornell.

The program was presented by Howard Eldred of Escanaba, area game supervisor for the Department of Conservation. Eldred in a brief talk stressed the need for deer hunting safety, pointing out that while there may be accidents attributable to "acts of God," there are hunting deaths caused largely by carelessness. He urged fathers to teach their sons to hunt safely.

A motion picture on the history of the Michigan deer herd and the need to regulate the herd to fit food supply conditions was presented by the speaker.

City Suspends Plant Operator

GLADSTONE—The suspension of Bernard DeHooghe, operator of the Gladstone sewage treatment plant, for alleged neglect of duty was announced last night by City Manager H. J. Henrikson to the Gladstone City Commission.

Manager Henrikson reported that Russell Johnson of the Michigan Health Department had reported in a letter to the manager that he had made several visits to the treatment plant and had been unable to get in.

Henrikson told the commission that a relief operator was assigned to the station Friday and that DeHooghe did not report Friday or Saturday. He was relieved of his duties Sunday, the manager reported.

The suspension is "until such time as reinstated by the State Health Department and the City Commission."

A special meeting of the commission will be held to consider the matter.

Mild Weather Will Continue

Escanaba and vicinity is due for still another day of mild Indian Summer weather, but there may be a trend toward an unsettled condition before nightfall tomorrow, says Tom Coen, temporarily in charge of the Escanaba weather bureau.

The high pressure just north of the Montana border yesterday is now centered around the Upper Lake region and the fine weather continues.

Yesterday's thermometer readings reached a high of 52 and a low this morning of 31. By 10 a. m. it had risen to 48 and will probably reach yesterday's high this afternoon. The sky has been slightly overcast. This will increase moderately throughout tomorrow. The five-day outlook for Escanaba and vicinity forecasts temperatures near normal. Rain or snow may come about Thursday.

For the second day, the entire country, with the exception of an area near Puget Sound, has been rainless.

Editorials—

Good Public Schools Are The Responsibility Of All People

It has often been said that the public schools belong to all the people. This statement implies that the people have both rights and responsibilities toward their schools. On one hand, they have the right to determine the policies governing such things as the curriculum, special services for exceptional children, the employment of teachers, and the construction of a new elementary school. On the other hand, they are responsible for providing the public schools with the necessary financial and moral support.

The people of a community exercise these rights and carry out their responsibilities through their local schoolboards. These local officers should be the most carefully selected of all public officials. They should be the best qualified persons available and should be genuinely interested in improving public education.

The local schoolboard stands between the school personnel and the people. Therefore, the board has the obligation of keeping the people informed not only of the needs of the public schools, but also of the good work that the schools are doing. The board has the obligation of finding out from the people what kind of school they want and need.

The actual operation of the public schools is a responsibility of the school personnel—their job is to carry out the sincere desires of the people, but not to be told how to teach fractions, for example. All three—the people, the schoolboard, and the school personnel—should understand and respect one another's roles in public education.

The purpose of education may be summarized as the making of good citizens—morally, socially, economically politically—by giving each child the opportunity to satisfy his needs, interests, and abilities. This purpose should be fundamental in the expression of the people's desires for their schools, in the schoolboard's regulations on various aspects of the educational program, and in the educators' operation of the school itself.

However, actual control of public education stems from the rights and responsibilities of the people. The proper control of the public schools requires knowledge and understanding. While the schools should tell the people what they are doing and why, there are other ways in which the people can obtain the facts—through a citizens educational advisory committee which deliberately sets out to study a particular problem of the public schools and on the basis of the findings makes recommendations to the schoolboard; and thru the PTA where parents and teachers can exchange ideas.

The people should be honest and sincere in searching for facts and presenting suggestions. Good citizens honestly desirous of improving public education will be alert to those who look for and magnify objectionable features, or what they think are objectionable features. They will be on the watch for those who have a personal axe to grind and demand that the schools teach or not teach certain things. They will be especially vigilant for those who would undermine the public schools or destroy them while pretending to be acting in their best interests. "Eternal vigilance" will be their watchword.

Most Americans want good schools. But good schools cost money, and a community gets just about what it pays for. To provide special curriculums for physically and mentally handicapped children, health facilities, special courses such as driver education, audio-visual equipment, nursery schools and junior colleges, camping experiences, and well-constructed, fire-proof buildings with enough classrooms to comfortably accommodate all children of school age, and the many other facilities considered necessary in modern education costs money. When the people have chosen a schoolboard which is sincerely and wholeheartedly working for the best in public education, and when they have endorsed a budget that provides within their financial means for the things needed by a good school and have taxed themselves an amount sufficient to meet that budget, they will have discharged their major financial responsibility toward the schools.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—It would be comforting and reassuring to the country if one were able to report today that America is entering a period of party responsibility and that the legislative branch of the government will not be encroaching on the executive. But just the opposite is true.

Strange things are happening—things that the "left wingers" and "right wingers" will find it difficult to justify as consistent.

For the Democratic party has not "won" control of the Senate even with the Oregon seat voted into the Democratic column on Tuesday. I will get control only if Senator Morse, elected as a Republican after having been legally chosen in a Republican Primary, deserts his party and votes with the Democrats.

FIGHT FOR CHAIRMANSHIPS

Some Democrats now may also desert his party and either vote with the Republicans or, what is more likely, abstain from voting altogether in the organization proceedings, so that the Republicans could continue to bear the responsibility for control of the Senate and its committees.

If this develops, then the fight will be on committee chairmanships. Clifford Case, senator-elect in New Jersey, announced during the last campaign that, though elected as a Republican in a Republican primary, he would desert his party and vote against Senator McCarthy to be chairman of the committee on government operations. The Wisconsin senator retaliated by refusing to support Mr. Case, a mistaken move which encouraged Republicans in New Jersey to stay away from the polls—something that nearly cost the Republicans a Senate seat.

Maybe some day the Senate will elect committee chairmen altogether on their merits and on ability instead of in accordance with an obsolete seniority system. Such a change would be welcomed by the country.

But all the fault is not on the Republican side. Already the Democrats are showing evidences of going far beyond anything Senator McCarthy ever did by way of congressional inquiries into the acts of other branches of the government.

JUDICIAL INTERFERENCE

The most sensational example of this has gone almost unnoticed in the last few days—at least, there hasn't been an outcry from those who only a few weeks ago were whipping themselves into a frenzy of protest because the Wisconsin senator was delving into matters inside the executive branch of the government. For Senator Hennings, Democrat, of Missouri now has come forward with a move that amounts to interference with court proceedings—something unprecedented for any congressional committee to attempt.

Mr. Hennings a few days ago requested and Senator Langer, Republican, chairman of the judiciary committee, agreed to an investigation of a case actually pending in the courts—the question of why the Department of Justice sought disqualification of Judge Youngdahl, who in the U. S. District Court here, has been dealing with indictments of Owen Lattimore for perjury.

It is difficult to see how the attorney general and the U. S. attorney, who are to be asked by Senators Langer and Hennings to testify, can discuss the case without the committee being obliged to ask the judge himself to testify, too. But even an investigation merely of the prosecuting attorney's ideas and beliefs as to rights under the law to request disqualification of judges is an interference with the judicial process.

In connection, Senator Langer last February formally presented to the Senate a document on the "congressional power of investigation," which was a study prepared at his request by the legislative reference service of the Library of Congress. Under the heading, "investigations involving matters already before the courts," appears the following two paragraphs:

"The power of congressional committees to invade the judicial field is an undecided question. The courts will not permit a committee to sit in judgment over people or issues when the identical case or controversy is pending before a court of competent jurisdiction. The rule has been laid down that the implied power of legislative assemblies to deal with contempt is the least possible power adequate to the end proposed. The courts seem disposed to apply this rule when a congressional inquiry becomes enmeshed with the judicial machinery."

"Same With John---He Can't Stand Raking Leaves"

Our New Look In Orient Relies On Jet-Propelled Sling Shots

HONOR GUARD OF U.S. TROOPS still in Korea is reviewed by UN and American officials at Seoul airport. We now have less than 100,000 GIs there, as against wartime peak of 350,000.

By FRED SPARKS

(NEA Staff Correspondent)
TOKYO—(NEA)—When David stopped Goliath with a sling shot he proved you can lick a big guy without getting close enough for the giant to grab you.

That's what we'll do if we ever have to struggle with the Chinese giant again. We'll use a jet-propelled sling shot.

Chatting in Pearl Harbor and Tokyo with U. S. generals and admirals, I found "David and Goliath" the theme of our present "New Look" in the Orient.

We wrestled with the giant in Korea and while we bloodied his nose he dug too many American graves.

We're moving GIs out of Korea as fast as the ROKs can take over. It's doubtful—no matter what—if they'll ever return to the Asian mainland, except for shore leave in Hong Kong's Eternal Joy Ballroom.

We're telling friends like Korea and Siam and what's left of Indo-China we'll gladly furnish weapons and know-how (plus air and sea muscle) to plug any Red Chinese push. But they'll have to man the foxholes with their own sons.

From Hawaii through the Pacific island bases and Japan to Seoul there are visible signs of the pull-back.

After dark, Honolulu's hysterical streets recall World War II. GIs of the 25th Division (returned from Korea) outnumber possible dates ten to one and get their kicks having "Mother" tattooed on biceps.

The Pentagon figures that this body power sunbathing on Waikiki worries Peiping more than if it were shivering in a Korean tent. Reason: In Korea a GI is pinned down, out of any major show. But with our sea control he could shift quickly to any threatened island—like the Philippines, Formosa or Japan. Furthermore, he could raid China's endless coastline, making Red sea-side sentries apply for mountain duty.

Major air units have been evacuated from Korea and Japan so the MIGs can't catch them asleep on the strip. Guam, in the Marianas, has again become the Home of the A-Bomb.

The planes that mushroomed Hiroshima and Nagasaki took off from the Marianas. Recently fat-bellied B-36's were snuggled under the palm trees.

They give us more flying block-busting power than we had in the Pacific when we made Hirohito quit without landing a single Marine. And Peiping is just a few cigarette puffs further for the intercontinental jets.

Newly trained Japanese soldiers are slowly taking over GI responsibilities here in Japan. The new army is democratic compared to Imperial days when a lieutenant would slap every face in his company if drill was shabby.

All Japan proudly waits for the two American destroyers, now en route, and re-named "Morning Breeze" and "Flag Fluttering Breeze." Unless history flip-flops again, the growing Japanese navy will help keep Communists from sampling sukiyaki on the Ginza.

Never forget: Japan is the Number One prize, with an industrial machine that can produce more top fire engines — or shells—than all Asia combined. And with a military tradition that includes whipping Russia in 1905.

During the wartime peak we had 350,000 GIs in Korea. Now there are less than 100,000, which is unfair to shoe shine boys and night club headwaiters.

Our spies insist the Chinese have also comparatively reduced their forces—perhaps for adventures elsewhere.

Under these conditions the Pentagon thinks the ROKs could contain any attack—and give the taxpayers a break. The ROK army doesn't favor laundry units or hobby craft shops which make an American division cost $400,000 to equip, against $20,000,000 for natives.

On the political side, a suggestion last winter that American boys be sent to Indo-Chinese jungles scratched the bottom of public opinion polls.

On the military side, all U. S. generals — from MacArthur to Bradley—oppose our GIs fighting in mainland Asia's rice paddies. Under the 'David and Goliath' system there'll never be another Korea.

So They Say

I want to build up my country peacefully, so I oppose war. For the same reason (Red) China does not want war. Both countries need time.—India's Prime Minister Nehru.

If I have to choose between a crippled revolution and a bloody one, I will certainly choose a bloody one, I will certainly choose a bloody revolution.—Egypt's Premier Nasser.

The principal reason we trust the United States . . . is because we don't think they have designs on Liberia or . . . any other underprivileged peoples of the earth.—Liberia's President William Tubman.

Our party is bigger than any one man. It is big enough to embrace people of differing viewpoints.—Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R., Wis.).

This should put the (U. S.) Supreme Court and the people of this nation on notice that . . . Georgia is determined to preserve segregation.—Georgia's Governor, Talmadge as state approves private schools.

I think everybody is scared of dying but they won't say so.—Charles Cleggman, NYU professor, on NBC radio program, "Conversation."

In New York state this was not a Republican day.—Defeated GOP gubernatorial candidate Sen. Irving M. Ives.

I strongly believe we are on the threshold of agriculture's most thrilling period—and a profitable period for farmers who seize the opportunities of today and tomorrow.—Agriculture Secretary Benson.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The Senate race pattern indicated that Senate contests were decided more on personalities than issues, with many sound voters divided as they were in the last Congress, the Democrats would appear to have an advantage of voting strength even though the GOP organizes and controls the committees.

The result in the House is in keeping with the historical record that the party in power loses strength in a mid-term election. The Republicans threw everything they had into the fight to overcome their handicap. This included more television and radio time, all the influence which an administration in power commands over promises of contracts and jobs, more campaign money, more manpower and somewhat more mud. But they weren't enough to overcome the trend.

So much for what happened. POLITICIANS NO MORE than get one election out of the road than they have to start thinking about the next one.

In the light of the 1954 election results a few facts about 1956 stand out clearer than they did before.

The prospect of President Eisenhower being a candidate to succeed himself is now definitely thinned. It has been fairly evident for some time that he is not anxious to have a second term. The Republicans have no other candidate of the President's stature.

The campaign waged by Vice President Richard M. Nixon this year has raised some doubt as to his effectiveness. While he showed tremendous energy and enthusiasm, his tactics did not bring the desired results.

By contrast, Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson looks better than he did in 1952. If anything offset President Eisenhower's final campaign drive and appeals, it was the two windup speeches of ex-Governor Stevenson. He earned his place as the recognized spokesman for his party, closing ranks that were broken at Chicago.

Democrats, however, are traditionally a more united party when in the minority than when in majority control. The one big uncertainty on their horizon now is whether the Texas Democratic congressional leaders—Speaker Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson—will challenge Stevenson's leadership in charting a program for the party in the next two years.

THIS COULD BE AN IMPORTANT matter almost immediately in the selection of a new Democratic National Committee chairman to succeed the resigning Steve Mitchell.

If the Democratic forces in the new Congress can hold together in the next two years as they have held in this year's campaign, their party's prospects cannot be minimized.

But with power comes responsibility. Strategically, the Democrats may be in a less favorable position in control of the House at least, than they would be if the Republicans retained control.

Completely out of power, the Democrats would be free to criticize whatever they didn't like about the Eisenhower program, building up issues as they did in the last session. In control of congressional committees in even only one house of Congress, the Democrats must share burdens of office and take part of the blame for whatever happens.

Farm policy, defense spending, public works and tax reduction offer the best examples of what is at stake. All will be major issues in 1956.

IF THE DEMOCRATS set out to reverse the 1954 farm bill by moving back to rigid 90 per cent price supports, the obvious effect will be higher government spending to buy bigger surpluses.

Democrats in the last Congress and in the campaign criticized Republican reduction of national defense funds and curtailed appropriations for government power and reclamation projects. Similarly the Democrats proposed more direct aid to reduce unemployment through public works.

If now the Democrats are able to force through larger government spending programs and at the same time put over a tax cut for lower income brackets, the government's fiscal position is in for another beating. It will mean only further unbalancing of the budget and a threat of more inflation.

This is the biggest pitfall which the now cocky Democrats have to hurdle in the two years ahead.

Try And Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

The late Lewis Browne, able author, began his career as a rabbi on the West Coast. When an envious competitor heard this, he inquired sarcastically of Browne at a dinner, "A rabbi once, eh? Were you defrocked?" "Not at all," answered Lewis calmly, "I was unsuited."

A distinguished speaker was introduced at a banquet by one of those dimly dull, pompous asses who never know when to stop. After he finally relinquished the floor, the distinguished speaker remarked, "I owe our master of ceremonies a deep debt of platitudes."

Low Salt, Low Sodium Diets Aid Hypertension Victims

By EDWIN P. IORDAN M. D. — Written for NEA Service

The problem of hypertension or high blood pressure is one of the most serious facing the medical profession today. High blood pressure cannot be considered as a single specific disease since there are several varieties, since the outlook varies from person to person, and since the management for each individual must be chosen with great care. In some cases the origin can be pretty well identified but in others the cause cannot be traced or is not known and this largest group of all is commonly known as essential hypertension.

Even for essential hypertension, however, some recent developments in treatment offer a good deal of assistance. For example, some patients have been given a diet from which not only the sodium contained in salt is removed, but most of the sodium in the other foods.

THE LOW SODIUM diet is rather complicated to prepare and is not too tasty, but good results in bringing about a drop in blood pressure have been reported. This treatment certainly will not answer the entire question of hypertension, but at least the use of "low salt, low sodium" diets in certain cases is valuable. The so-called rice diet is one of the low-sodium diets.

An operation called sympathectomy, in which certain nerves in the back near the spine are cut has also been used. After these nerves are severed the blood vessels expand and are able to carry more blood and blood pressure is lowered. This form of treatment has now been in use for selected patients for a good many years and seems to be of real value. It is not suitable for all patients with hypertension.

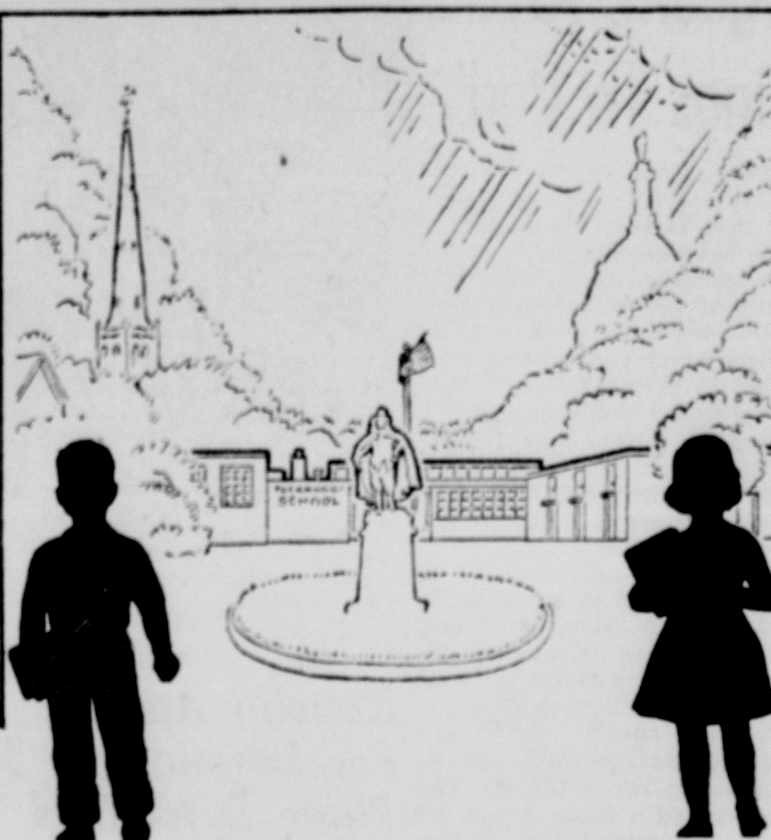

IN ADDITION to these measures there is a drug known as hydralazine which is quite useful in the control of the symptoms of some of those afflicted with essential hypertension. Most recently a preparation obtained from the root of a plant known as Rauwolfia Serpentina has been introduced. In certain kinds of hypertension the results from the use of this drug seem favorable but like other methods available today it almost surely is not the final answer.

ONE FORM of essential hypertension is known as malignant because in a few weeks or months it may progress so rapidly as to cause irreparable damage. In this variety of high blood pressure the most active measures are necessary without the least delay.

UNFOUNDED CRITICISM

Of all the unfair criticism that one hears at the bridge table, partner to partner, the worst type involves blind opening leads.

It is quite a feat to pick out the best opening in every hand, and there is no expert who attains a perfect mark in this respect. Consider, for example, West's dilemma in the following hand:

West dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♠ 943	♥ KQ	♦ J985	♣ A982
♠ KJ7	♥ 62	♦ 8432	♣ 3
♠ 1052	♥ A10	♦ A975	♣ AK74
	♥ KQ6	♦ KQ6

The bidding, far from facilitating West's opening-lead decision, made it more difficult.

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1♣
Pass	3♣	Pass	3♥
Pass	4♣	Pass	6♣
Pass	Pass	Pass

Even though North passed originally, his double raise in clubs was a questionable response, scarcely descriptive of his balanced distribution. However, in this particular case it can't be denied that this response turned out beautifully.

West, after long thought, concluded that desperation tactics were called for, and so he opened his singleton diamond. It was an unlucky decision! East then was taken by the ace, and declarer, after drawing trumps, took the marked finesse against the diamond queen, making 12 tricks. East then addressed some very pointed remarks to his partner, deriding the "very idea of a singleton lead under such circumstances." According to East, the lead actually figured to cost a trick—presumably, of course, the setting trick.

Well, perhaps the lead was a shade too desperate; perhaps West should have tried something more "neutral." But there is one thing we shall never know. Suppose South's holding had been:

-------	------------	-------	--------

What would East have said then, if West didn't open his singleton? Get your Free Digest of the Culbertson Point-Count Method. Simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the J. C. Winston Co., 1010 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The War 10 Years Ago

NOV. 3-17, 1944

On Nov. 16 Gen. Eisenhower launched a general offensive with six armies lined up on a north-south axis from Nijmegen, Holland, to the Swiss frontier. The aim was to force a breakthrough in the Siegfried Line. The advantage of the Allied armies in outnumbering the Germans in manpower, artillery, tanks and planes, was largely offset by the strength of the West Wall fortifications. In Italy fighting was sporadic, with the British taking Forli on Nov. 9. In the eastern European sector, collapse of Axis resistance in the Balkans enabled the British to clear the last Nazi stragglers out of Greece by Nov. 4. In Hungary Russian spearheads entered Budapest's suburbs Nov. 6. On Nov. 8 Berlin radio announced Germans had been bombarding London for several weeks with V2 rocket bombs. On Nov. 12 the giant 45,000-ton Tirpitz, the Reich's last battleship, was sunk by RAF earthquake bombs. In the Pacific, U. S. troops by Nov. 3 had cut across Leyte's waist and had reached the western shore about 20 miles below Ormoc. On Nov. 9 Japanese poured an estimated 35,000 reinforcements into the Leyte battle to try to stem the U. S. drive. On Nov. 12 a Leyte-bound convoy of six Japanese destroyers and four transports carrying an estimated 8,000 troops was sunk by U. S. 3rd Fleet carrier planes. In other Far Eastern developments, Singapore was bombed by B29s on Nov. 5 and in China the U. S. 14th Air Force disclosed on Nov. 12 it had destroyed its base at Laichow to prevent capture by the Japanese.

Goebel...first American beer to win acclaim in Belgium

Director of Wielemans-Ceuppens Brewery, Brussels, puts Goebel "among the world's foremost beers"

"From our sample of Goebel Beer at our brewery in Brussels, it is evident that it is made with the same painstaking care we continually apply to our brewing of Wielemans Beer. Only the best of ingredients and utmost technical skill can give Goebel such a fine balance of flavor and body. It has clear, bright color and delicate dryness of taste.

"In our opinion Goebel merits its place among the world's foremost beers."

Eric Wielemans
Director-Gérant
Wielemans-Ceuppens Brewery

Nothing speaks more eloquently for the fine flavor and superb quality of Goebel Beer than this highly unusual tribute from another brewery.

And it is even more unusual when that praise comes from an old established brewery in Europe, the traditional home of fine beers.

Isn't it, too, good reason for you to try Goebel next time?

Director Wielemans, pictured in front of the hearth in his office, enjoys a glass of Goebel. Note antique porcelain beer pump and old brewer's clock in background.

Case Settled Out Of Court

The case of Edward Jasonowicz, administrator of the estate of Walter Jasonowicz, deceased, against Blanche O'Connor, administrator of the estate of Oscar and Eileen Kjelgren, deceased, set for trial by jury today, was settled out of court yesterday afternoon.

The deceased people involved in the case were killed in a motor crash on Highway US-2 about three years ago and suit was brought to establish the amount of liability involved prior to settlement of the estates.

Shortly after court convened last week it had been argued before Judge Glenn H. Jackson whether the case should be tried at this time and the judge had ruled that it should. Monday morning notice was given that negotiations for settlement were underway and in the afternoon it was announced that an agreement had been reached. The terms and amount of settlement were not announced.

There being no other jury cases on the calendar, Judge Jackson dismissed the jurors for the term.

Appearing before Judge Jackson this morning, three men held on charges of breaking and entering pleaded guilty and the judge accepted their pleas. Ronald F. Hawkins 21, and Melvin Browder, 18, both of Gladstone were charged with the night time entry of the Freeman cottage in Cornell on Sept. 17. Martin Percy Ritchie, 44, of Escanaba was charged with entering the Britton Hall cottage on Bay de Noc and taking away three guns. This occurred on Sept. 31, according to the charge. Sentence will probably be pronounced this afternoon.

A few non-jury cases remain on the calendar, chief among them are divorce actions.

NEWEST IRON HORSE—This new steam turbine engine, pride of the Norfolk & Western Railway, recently set a new tonnage mark between Columbus and Portsmouth, Ohio. It hauled 13,000 tons in one 165-car train, compared to 12,000 normally, in a test watched carefully by mechanical engineers. The locomotive weighs 1,172,000 pounds, carries 20 tons of coal and, with an extra water tank, 38,000 gallons of water.

The Angels Fell

By Bruno Fischer

Copyright by Bruno Fischer. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

I
In the days when we had been married, Dina's favorite phrase used to be: "Darling, I need you." That had meant that she wanted me to put up the coffee while she set the table, or that she had cut her finger slicing onions, or that she was stuck in the car without gas five miles from a service station.

Now Dina said it again, three years after our divorce, only she didn't call me darling. "Paul," she said, "I need you."

At that moment she was 30 miles away in Raventown, and her voice sounded remote and urgent over the wire.

"Is it about Joey?" I said because our son was all we any longer had in common.

"This has nothing to do with Joey," Dina said. "Paul, I'm afraid for my life." Then she added: "Actually."

When the three of us had lived together and Joey had awakened in the middle of the night with a slight cough, she would drag a doctor out of bed with the insistence that it was a matter of life and death — actually. When I wasn't earning more money than the top 5 per cent of the population, she would complain that we were starving — actually.

"Then why don't you go to the district attorney?" I said. "He's your husband. You ought to have some influence with him."

Dina uttered an annoyed sound, and I could imagine the post on her doll's face. "Paul, I must see you. When will you be home?"

"From six on. I live at the end of Blackberry Lane."

"I'll be there this evening."

The cement block building in which I worked occupied a corner across the street from the railroad station. A 30-foot sign proclaimed: "PALEY'S TRUCKING AND STORAGE." Martha Paley ran a tough man's business like a man. The two upper stories were devoted to furniture storage, and there were three trucks to haul furniture and freight. My title as manager gave me one of the desks in the office and the right to bawl out the men.

At a quarter to five Martha told me that a Mrs. Rundthal wanted a storage estimate at 5 o'clock. I told Martha I'd go home from there.

Mrs. Rundthal wasn't in. I sat on the open porch and thought about Dina. Maybe she didn't like her husband any more. I'd always had an idea that she hadn't cared for him too much, but she certainly liked being the wife of District Attorney Barnett Larkin.

What would I do if she wanted to come back to me? No, thanks, I'd had enough. Anyway, it was nonsense. Dina had no desire to be the wife of the manager of a small trucking outfit.

At 20 minutes after five I left Mrs. Rundthal's porch. I decided that I might as well spend half an hour catching up on paper work in the office.

At the warehouse, the boss was backing the six-wheel truck to the loading platform, as competently as any man.

Martha Paley pulled the handbrake up and dug a pack of cigarettes out of her slacks. "You said you weren't coming back today," "Mrs. Rundthal wasn't home," "She said 5 o'clock. Why didn't you wait?"

"I gave her 20 minutes extra," I said. "That's too much for any woman."

Martha got out of the truck cab. She was a full-bodied woman, not tall, not fat, but deeply and lavishly curved, especially in brown corduroy slacks and a thin pea-green jersey sweater. She stood a moment against the truck, re-arranging a hairpin in the tight bun at the back of her neck, then she went into the office without starting an argument.

"Hey, Paul," Jack Dwight said. "A guy was looking for you."

It was almost 5:30. The only workers who hadn't knocked off were Jack Dwight and Ted Gallagher who were preparing to unload the truck.

"What guy?" I asked.

"Search me. He drove up in a snappy car about half an hour ago. I asked Martha where you was and she said you wouldn't be back today. He asked me where you lived and I told him."

"What was his name?"

"Search me. He looked like a salesman."

In the office Martha sat at her desk against the window. She had her compact out and with her pinky she was spreading a subdued red over her wide, full mouth.

"Boss," I said, "did you see the man who asked for me?"

"I had only a glimpse of him through the window. Rather handsome in a dignified way. What did he want?"

"I don't know."

She closed the lipstick, but didn't stop studying her face in the mirror of the compact.

"Do you have to keep calling me boss? All the men call me Martha."

"I know my place, Boss."

Suddenly she laughed. She had a fine laugh, low and cozy. "I need a man like you around to slap me down. There's a special delivery letter from Joey on your desk. It came a few minutes ago."

A warm glow spread through me when I picked up the letter and looked at the sloppy, wavering lines in pencil. Joey wrote in what a one-time newspaperman like me would call lower case, but which progressive schools called manuscript writing. At any rate, it made the letter practically legible except for one spot where Joey had erased so often that there was no paper left.

Martha came around to the side chair. "What does he have to say?"

"He wants me to meet him in New York City Saturday and take him to see the Giants."

"He must be lonely in that snooty private school," Martha said.

"Car mount isn't snooty. I made sure of that before I agreed with Dina to send him there. He's living with a bunch of fine kids."

"It's not the same."

"The things kids ask," I said testily. "He's only an hour from New York City, but it's six hours for me there and another six back. Just for a baseball game."

"Joey's mother has a good home in Raventown, and in a few months her husband is going to be a judge," Martha said.

"You never told me you knew Larkin."

"I don't but a friend of mine does. He says that Larkin is going to run for State Supreme Court justice this fall and is sure to be elected."

Dina would like that. Mrs. Justice, a notch higher than Mrs. District Attorney. She was climbing.

Ted Gallagher came into the office. He had washed and looked like the solid citizen he was. He said that if I was driving home he'd like a lift.

"I'm leaving right now," I told him.

Ted Gallagher was my landlord. He had bought a crumbling 40-year-old house isolated at the end of a dirt road called Blackberry Lane, and he had renovated it with his own hands and covered the outside with gray asbestos shingles. When the housing shortage had become acute, he had converted half the cellar into an apartment, knowing that anything would rent.

I swung my coupe up on the grassy area beside the house. Charlotte Gallagher was emptying garbage into the can outside the back door. She was neat and amiable, and there was seldom venom in her tone, when she scolded her ponderous husband. She came to the car and whispered excitedly: "Paul, Mrs. Larkin is here."

I was still in the car, twisted around in the seat to take my topcoat off the shelf under the rear window. I heard Ted say: "You mean Joey's mother?"

"Yes," Charlotte said. "I told her to wait in Paul's apartment."

I had never mentioned Dina to them, but whenever Joey was here he spent a lot of time upstairs with the Gallaghers talking his head off. To Joey the most fascinating thing about his mother was that she was married to a district attorney, the kind of man who in fiction heroically and infallibly brought master criminals to justice.

I said, "Thanks, Charlotte," and went to the basement apartment entrance at the side of the house. The door was below ground level, down three concrete steps, and when I opened the door, Dina wasn't standing there with that shy, tentative smile she wore when she was about to maneuver a man into doing something.

She wasn't in the kitchenette, but the bathroom door was closed. I knocked on the bathroom door, calling, "Dina," and when she didn't answer I pushed the door open. She wasn't in there either.

The only sign that she had been present was the photograph album spread open on the table. I kept it on the bottom shelf of the bookcase, among the dictionary and the atlas. Dina must have browsed through the album while waiting.

I started to toss my topcoat on a chair and then decided that if the weather continued as warm as this I wouldn't need it again until the fall. I opened the closet door to hang it up.

Under the dangling suits a man sat on the floor of the small closet. His back was against one wall his bent legs against the other. He wore a hat. His face, resting on the raised knees, was turned toward the wall.

For a hollow moment I stood motionless. Then I stooped and touched a dangling hand. The flesh was shockingly cold.

I raised the hand. The dead man had a sharp-featured face with a slick mustache over the upper lip. There was a neat, round, almost bloodless hole over the bridge of the nose.

Dina had been right in being afraid. But not for her own life. This was the life of her husband, Barnett Larkin.

SAULT STE. MARIE—Sales of three Sault business houses were the targets Saturday night of burglars who netted over $2,000 in money and merchandise.

Most of the loss was from Freedman Wholesale at 711 Ashmun St., where Dave Freedman reported the loss of $1,800 to $2,000 in money, some of it in checks, eleven Gruen wrist watches valued at $900, and a gold ring.

The safe at E. J. Imeson & Son at 709 Johnstone St. was removed after the front door of the office was forced open by the burglars. The outer safe at Swift & Co. at 707 Ashmun St. was broken open.

Imeson reported the loss of business records and a small amount of silver in the safe from his office, and police said there was no loss in the Swift & Co. burglary.

Sergeant, AWOL, Swings To Reds

VIENNA, Austria (P)—The Soviet Information Service announced today that Russian authorities in Austria have granted an American soldier political asylum. The U.S. Army said the soldier had been AWOL since Oct. 9 after being court-martialed and broken from sergeant to corporal.

The Russian announcement identified the soldier as William Clayton Turner, 32, U. S. Army headquarters in Heidelberg gave his home address as Water Valley, Miss.

An Army spokesman said Turner has been attached to the 124th Armored Ordnance Battalion, stationed at Mainz, Germany, and stationed records did not indicate on what charge he was court-martialed.

The Soviet agency said Turner had asked for and been granted permission to live in Russia. The agency quoted a letter it said he had written which gave this account of his defection from the West.

While serving in Germany, he became convinced that the rebirth of an "aggressive German army" would lead to war. He became certain that the U. S. government was preparing new aggression in collaboration with Fascist elements in West Germany.

"I have decided to go where there is real freedom for a simple man, and I therefore ask for the possibility to live and work in the Soviet Union," he was quoted.

The letter said Turner was drafted in 1942, took part in the Normandy landings and served with the 29th Division. From 1945 to 1952, after his discharge from the Army, he was mostly out of work. In 1952 he was drafted again and sent to West Germany.

Kremlin Apology For Downing U. S. Plane Demanded damaged "as a result of such war ton attacks by Soviet aircraft."

MAY GET ESCORTS

WASHINGTON (P)—The United States is considering giving fighter escorts to American aircraft which fly near Communist territory, secretary of State Dulles disclosed today.

Dulles told a news conference the question is presently being studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

He noted that the pilot of the RB29 photographic plane shot down by Soviet fighters over Japanese waters last Sunday had authority to shoot back, but did not do so.

Dulles said this was one of those hairline decisions on which people might make different judgments afterwards. That was the case also with Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen and his decision to attend a Soviet party in Moscow Sunday night following the plane incident, Dulles said.

Dulles said Bohlen had to make a quick judgment without instructions from Washington on the basis of incomplete information which reached him less than an hour before he left for the party.

The ambassador's attendance at the party had been criticized by Sens. Knowland (R-Calif.) and Bridges (R-NH) just before Dulles' meeting with newsmen.

FRUIT PACK

SACRAMENTO — California's frozen fruit pack in 1953 rose to almost 144 million pounds, a gain of 52 per cent over the pack for the previous year.

NEW YORK (P)—The stock market developed a certain amount of hesitancy today following its sensational post-election surge ahead.

On balance, the market was barely higher. Gains of one to two points were found in several sections of the list, but most advances were small. Losses appeared frequently, sometimes passing a point.

Business maintained a swift pace at around the highest levels of the year and much greater than Monday's 3,180,000 shares traded in a strong market.

The first forward rush played few favorites. Almost all sections had a hand in the rise.

There were some sharp gainers including Reynolds Metals up between three and four points, Ingersoll Rand up between four and five and U.S. Gypsum up around five points.

Tobacco shares were depressed from the start on the heels of a new discussion of smoking and cancer.

U. S. Government bonds were steady to lower.

MAGIC EYE BEATS BULLETS—An electronic device that beats enemy bullets to the punch will soon help protect Air Force jet planes from being exploded in midair. The "explosion suppressor" can "see" a 2000-mph bullet and "hit back" before it travels 11 inches into the air-plane. Within 300 millionths of a second after the bullet hits, the gadget triggers a chemical mist that smothers fires or explosions before they get seriously started. In the night test above, incendiary machine-gun bullets (white streaks) are blasting at two fighter-bomber wings loaded with jet fuel. Wing at left is being destroyed as fuel blazes. Wing at right, protected by the explosion suppressor, takes the same bullets without serious damage. This test was made on the gun range of Republic Aviation Corporation at Farmingdale, N. Y., where the device was developed.

India Debating Change In Name

NEW DELHI (AP)—The old dispute over whether India should really be called Bharat has cropped up again, this time in the Delhi state assembly where some members urged use of that name. In Pakistan it is argued that the undivided sub-continent was India and that division in 1947 made it Pakistan and Bharat—not India. But Indians say that as the legal and constitutional heir of the rights and liabilities of undivided India their country is rightfully called India. The word India is an anglicized version of "Hindustan," the land of the Hindus. Ancient maps show Bharat as covering not only what is now India but Pakistan, Afghanistan, parts of Iran, Nepal, Tibet, and most of the Chinese mainland.

Daddy Was Not Expert Caster

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—Little Michael D. Bucher, 3, is the biggest fish his daddy ever caught. Michael was sitting close to his father in a boat so that he wouldn't get hurt. A big fish popped out of the water and daddy threw his line, but the hook caught in Michael's scalp. Following removal of the hook at St. Joseph's Hospital, Michael was reported making satisfactory recovery.

Color Line Gets Applied In Reverse

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP)—For many years Negroes have been making news by applying for admission to colleges in states where segregation laws barred them. The news was reversed when more than a dozen white applicants were denied admission to Virginia State College, a school for Negroes. The college turned them down after being advised by the State Board of Education that they could not be admitted under Virginia law. President Robert P. Danile of the college said the white applicants were from the area near the college and were mostly interested in part-time courses as day students.

Miss Norma Jean Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor, 311 N. 16th St., and Lee Richard Wiles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. Wiles, 1318 Ludington St., exchanged vows in a nuptial ceremony at St. Patrick's Rectory Oct. 30.

Rev. Francis Hollenbach officiated at the 10 a. m. double ring service.

Attendants of the couple were Mrs. Ernest Belanger of Marquette and Clarence Arbour.

A street length dress of peacock blue velvet was worn by the bride. The fitted dress was fashioned with a full skirt and short jacket with three-quarter length sleeves. She wore white accessories. Her corsage was red roses.

The matron of honor was attired in a charcoal gray wool dress with a short jacket and three quarter length sleeves with accessories of peacock blue. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

When the newlyweds left for their honeymoon, the bride wore a beige wool suit with brown accessories. They are making their home at 800 S. 11th St. Both are Escanaba High School graduates.

Low-Salt Diet Is Dangerous

Perhaps the most dangerous of the fad diets is the woman who nonchalantly puts herself on a salt free diet without consulting her physician.

As with all diets, a doctor should be consulted first. Unless of course, it's simply a matter of cutting down on an extra piece of bread or skipping "goose" desserts in order to keep one's weight at an even keel.

The woman who places herself on a low-salt diet, has overlooked several important facts. First, she may think that this is a "quick" diet. But, she soon discovers, that the complete absence of sodium in her diet results in not a loss of tissue, but water. And, of course, this water is quickly replaced because of the immediate increased thirst.

Secondly, it is important that the salt balance of the body not be disturbed. For instance, a healthy balance among sodium, potassium and calcium is essential to normal heart action.

So, think twice before striking salt from your diet. In doing so, you are risking both your health and your looks. Especially when the salt-free diet results in little or no weight loss.

Packing food too closely into the refrigerator prevents cold air from circulating and reaching all parts of the food compartment. Use up leftover food quickly—don't put it in containers, shove them to the back, and forget about them!

Choose Styles To Suit Figure

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Most women, but especially the mature woman, are curious about the new look (currently called the "flat look") in fashions.

Older women, when remembering the "flat look" that was so popular during the twenties, invariably think of the tight bands they had to wear in order to flatten their bosoms and thus be fashionable.

They have since learned that in wearing these undergarments they were endangering their health. The pressure caused by these tight bands often caused damage to the breast tissue.

They also remember the discomfort of these "undergarments" and the old "flat look." Through personal experience, they know that the smile of the flapper in smart boyish garb concealed a discomfort they endured for fashion's sake.

Naturally, the big question is: "Will the 'flat look' return once more and bring with it the dreaded tight bindings?" From the corset and brassiere industry comes a loud, sharp "No!" They state first that the bustline is not flattened, but high and rounded.

The waistline is eased and the cinched waist will soon become passe. The rest of the new-look figure includes a long, slim torso.

They are also of the opinion that every woman should wear the silhouette that is most becoming to her own figure.

As for undergarments to complement the new look, they will be comfortable. Brassieres to lift the bustline, girdles and corsets to mold the figure properly. Don't throw away those nutritious liquids from canned or home-cooked vegetables! Use them for diluting evaporated milk when making creamed dishes. Use them, too, for diluting condensed soup.

Silver Tea Fund Will Provide Wheat For India

The Silver Tea held Monday evening at the First Methodist Church will be the means through which the India-Pakistan-Ceylon Study Group will send $1,000 worth of wheat to India.

The capacity crowd donated $50. This, forwarded to the Share Our Surplus plan of the Church World Service, will send 20 times that much worth of surplus wheat to the hungry populace of India.

An enjoyable musical program was presented at the tea and a movie, "Village of the Poor," was shown, describing how far reaching is the work of the Indian Christian Mission.

Mrs. Charles Anspaugh was given special recognition for her teaching of the group which has terminated its study of the Indian Sub-Continent.

Your Baby

In a crowded home, a playpen is a great help. But start putting Baby into it when he first spends time out of bed. All three months or so, when he's enjoying the sunlight on the floor, kicking and stretching, let him do it in the pen. That way, he'll be used to the bars and not consider them quite as offensive when he gets to the creeping stage. But no playpen will do all the time; he must have time to explore and investigate.

You know, because the doctor has told you, that Baby's crossed or uncoordinated eyes will go away. But relatives, particularly older ones, get upset and write confusing letters about not hanging toys over his bed. After a while you wonder if they really will go away after all. The best thing to do is not to mention the condition in letters to them and to screen the pictures carefully before sending them. The new mother has enough tasks on her hands without explaining a doctor's procedures to dubious relatives.

When a baby is very young, he may cry furiously before going to sleep. If you have checked that he is comfortable, warm and well-ventilated, then leave him alone, even for an hour, until he drops off to sleep. The next night it will take less time. In four nights he should go to sleep in ten minutes. Popping in on him will encourage him to cry, just to see you. However, when he learns to turn over one way, but not the other, and you hear a sudden cry, check on him. He may be jammed in the corner of the bed and unable to roll out.

The teething five or six-month-old loves to chew. A plastic rattle is pretty, but if it's too flimsy, he'll bite a chunk right out of it. A very sound toy for this stage is one of those red rubber bones made for dogs. It can be scrubbed often. He loves the color and it's ideal for biting and holding. They are inexpensive, but make sure the size you get is too big to go all the way in his mouth.

THAT SYLVANIA TV IS NO. 1 TODAY!

Here is a picture of a group of Sylvania dealers from Upper Michigan and Northeastern Wisconsin who flew to Buffalo, New York on October 31, 1954, to attend the latest Sylvania dealer-factory conference. These men counselled with factory engineers and production management and saw first-hand the production lines in the world's largest television plant—Sylvania, at Batavia, N. Y.

Your dealers reported direct to the factory what you, the customer, wants. That way the factory men get first-hand information so that they are able to give you television at its best for your particular territory.

In turn the factory men gave these dealers the most up-to-the-minute information and techniques, which means your Sylvania dealer is in a better position to get you peak performance from your television set.

It's just one more reason why Sylvania continues to be America's fastest growing television!! And why more carloads of Sylvania's roll into this area than all other brands combined!

Rotary Hears Glenn Price

Law enforcement and fire control are the principal duties of the Michigan Conservation Officer, according to Glenn Price, Gladstone officer of the Conservation department.

In Michigan for conservation purposes there are three regions, with each region divided into four districts and each district into 14 zones. The area assigned to Officer Price covers roughly about 400 square miles, so it is plainly seen that it is impossible for an officer to catch all violators.

Tips, and knowledge of how violators operate, prove valuable to officers, the speaker said. He pointed out that an early morning ride down a road gives an experienced officer a pretty good idea of what has been done on the night before in the way of violating game laws.

Some tips prove true while others many times send an officer on a wild goose chase. Some of the tips are received from persons definitely interested in conservation while others come from persons who probably have violated with the same person they are "squealing" on. Such tips usually are of little or no value.

There are several types of violators, the outlaw who is at it constantly, the repeater and the casual type.

Fast Cars Hazard
Fast cars today cause the conservation officers their biggest headache and create a hazard to officers and other motorists when a high speed chase occurs.

In regard to the "beefs" that persons make to officers regarding inaccurate predictions by the department on the deer, bird or duck season prospects, the speaker said that they are not so inaccurate as some think. He pointed to the large increase in number of hunters which result in less game per licensee.

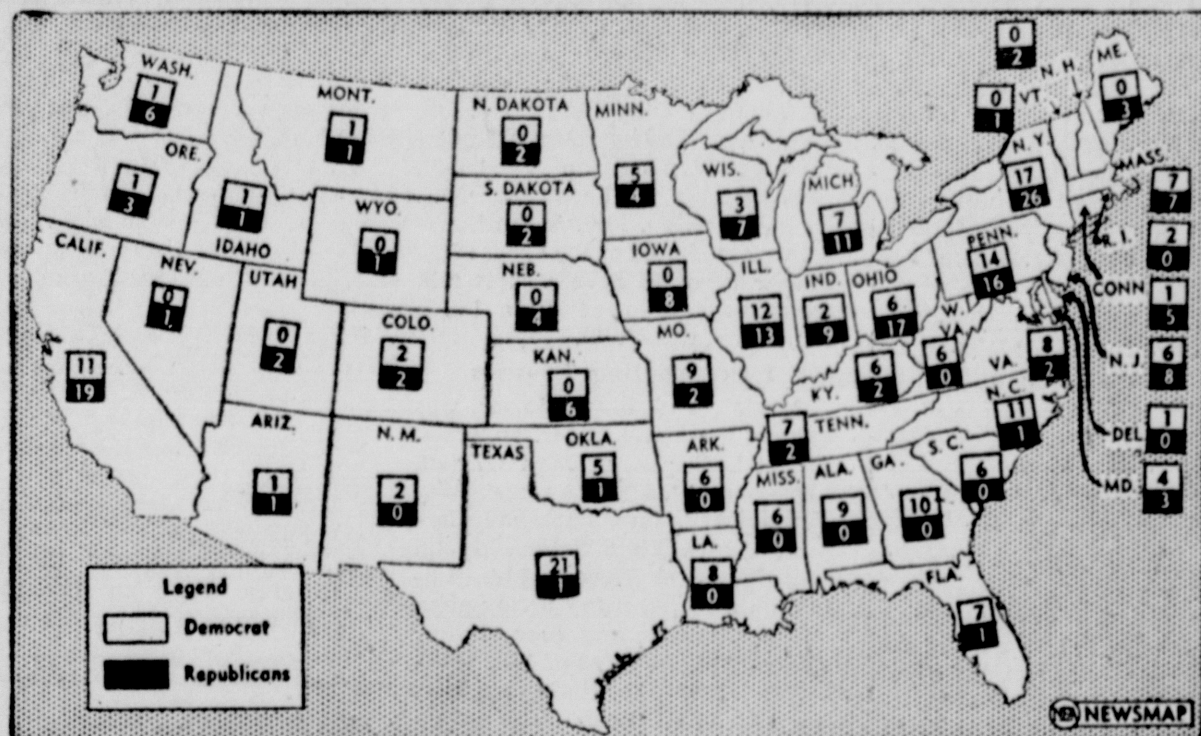

Officer Price said he had good cooperation in the City of Gladstone.

He touched on the research which the department is doing and told of anticipated results.

Should Kill More Deer
Using a pamphlet which the department has just issued, the speaker said it indicated that we are not killing too many deer each season for the reason that there is not sufficient winter range today for all. It is contended that two of ten deer are wasted under the buck law for they are not harvested. Of deer found starved, four of five are fawns.

Price would make no prediction on the current season which opens next Monday, but said he expected it to be about average.

School Band Plans Concert

Members of the Manistique High School band, directed by Joseph L. Giovannini, now are preparing to present their first of three concerts this year, in the school auditorium Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 8 p. m.

In recent years the band's first concert has been regarded as a "booster" event, and band mothers, PTA groups and businessmen are being contacted to obtain community support for it.

Funds obtained during the year are used to promote band activities, the director states, and much of it goes toward paying expenses to the annual U. P. band festival, which this year will be in Neenah. If enough funds are available, the band also goes to some football games, Giovannini stated.

Both the 40-piece Junior Band and the 70-piece Senior band will be heard in the concert this month. An advanced ticket sale is planned by band members.

Don't think the Upper Peninsula Sports Writers Association will have a snap picking the All-U. P. football team at its annual meeting at Iron River Saturday . . . There will be more candidates for the honor than you can shake the proverbial stick at . . . Just picking the four outstanding backs in the Peninsula would be a tremendous job this season.

Take a look at some of the backs that fans in this area have seen in action this year . . . There are Tom Brewer of Gladstone, Bill Lancaster and Jim Greenwood of Holy Name, Dale Manske of Escanaba, Bill Holm and Don Anderson of Manistique, Bill Peshek of Menominee, Ron Steiner of Iron Mountain, Jerry Kreider and Bill Counter of Kingsford, Tom Korpela of Munising . . . Then think of some of the top names from other parts of the Peninsula such as Eddie Vergara and Jerry Gallagher of Iron River, Chuck Greenlund of Stambaugh, John Ricci of Hancock, Ralph Hurley of Houghton, Eugene Valesano of Wakefield, Cammie Currie of Soo, Dick Werntan of Negaunee and so on . . . Quite a list to start with, eh.

The line will be no easier to select . . . Every position will have a handful of outstanding candidates . . . Some of the linemen have been getting headlines while others have hardly been mentioned during the season . . . It's going to be a tough job, no question about it.

As usual, there will be numerous complaints heard after the selections are announced next week . . . That's to be expected, as every outstanding high school player cannot be honored on the All-U. P. team . . . But you can rest assured that the U. P. writers will do everything possible to pick a sound, representative squad from the large Upper Peninsula area.

Here's how we look at this All-U. P. business . . . Because a youngster does not make the first or second team does not mean that he isn't a good football player . . . It is entirely possible that some deserving boy will be overlooked in the final selections . . . But if a boy does land on the team you can bet your bottom dollar that he has passed the critical test of approval from his fellow players, opponents, coaches and the U. P. scribes who follow the high school sport very closely.

New Athletics Owner Set To Select Field Manager

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Having won his four-month fight to purchase the Philadelphia Athletics and transfer the franchise to Kansas City, industrialist Arnold Johnson today tackled the problem of hiring a field and general manager.

He may disclose some of his plans at a press conference today.

Elated by the 6-2 vote of approval given him by the American League, Johnson Monday said he had an open mind on the managerial situation. He said he had talked to no one about the jobs but had many applications.

Boudreau Inside Track
It was learned that Lou Boudreau, deposed manager of the Boston Red Sox, has the inside track to the field managing job, and Parke Carroll, who was business manager of the New York Yankees Kansas City farm club in the American Assn., is a top candidate for general manager.

Johnson's architects have been surveying the Kansas City park for weeks and are ready to begin increasing the seating capacity from 17,600 to 36,000 before the 1955 season and to about 45,000 by 1956.

Johnson obtained control of the Kansas City ball park when he purchased Yankee Stadium from Yankee owners Del Webb and Dan Topping for 6 1/2 million dollars Dec. 17. He then made arrangements to sell the park to the city of Kansas City and lease it back for five years. The city has guaranteed one-million paid attendance per year for three years or Johnson can move his franchise somewhere else.

Rock Has Veteran Cage Squad Back This Year

ROCK — New coach Bob Pelkie has a veteran basketball squad taking part in drills as the Little Giants prepare for their 1954-55 cage opener against Trenary on Friday night, Nov. 19.

Seven lettermen from last year's team are back in action this season, three of them seniors. They are Terry Hade, Louis Kulju and Duane Vandenburg. Senior lettermen on the squad are Jack Lund, Vernon Norman, Ralph Anderson and Ronnie Hill.

Among the other candidates who are likely to remain with the varsity squad are juniors John Severinsen and Richard Seger and sophomores Ronald Aho, Richard Toyra and Edwin Seger.

Pelkie took over the coaching reins at Rock High School this fall succeeding Pete Tinsley, who

Spartans Return To Big Ten Play

By ROBERT E. VOGES
EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State gets back to the dog-eat-dog football competition of the Big Ten this Saturday after enjoying a soft touch 54-6 runaway over Washington State that gave the discouraged Spartans a much-needed lift.

The home fans thoroughly enjoyed watching MSC run for eight touchdowns. Every last sophomore unknown was given a chance to gallop. But it will be vastly different against Michigan, a team with the best defense in the Big Ten.

Michigan State has won its last four games from the Ann Arbor rival. This is figured as the year the Wolverines will slap down the sagging Spartans.

But Michigan State will be desperate for an upset to salvage some glory from a season of only two victories against five defeats.

MSC made 386 yards rushing against Washington State—almost as much as the 393 yards managed in the first three games against Western Conference competition.

The Spartans skipped practice entirely Monday because of a raft of injuries.

Randy Schrecengost, first string tackle and Don Berger, substitute center, both will undergo knee operations and will be out for the season.

Doubtful starters include quarterback Johnny Matsock and Ron LaTronica, with painful muscle strains, and halfback Bert Zagers and center Joe Badaczewski, both with twisted knees.

Michigan's Ends Rate High Defensive Praise

By JOHN BARBOUR
ANN ARBOR (AP)—Four sophomore ends are building a Big Ten reputation at Michigan where defense gets the accent.

Ron Kramer of East Detroit, Tom Maentz of Holland, Mike Rotunno of Canton, Ohio and Charley Brooks of Marshall, have stepped into the target area where the conference's best backs usually run.

The fast backfield men know if they can get past the end, half their battle is over. But the Michigan ends have been hard to pass. Last weekend Illinois brought the

Brandeis End Wanted By Pros

By BOB HOOBING
WALTHAM, Mass. (AP)—Bill McKenna of Brandeis may not be the best known college football end in the country, but the pros want this boy — badly.

Coached by former All-America Bennie Friedman, McKenna has built a reputation in these parts as the equal of any wingman. He has little chance of national recognition playing small college ball. However, the professional scouts know all about the 21-year old senior.

"McKenna can't miss as a pro," says Jack Kelleher who is an eastern representative of the Los Angeles Rams. Said an official of the world champion Detroit Lions: "We'd like to have him on our club."

Among the nation's small college leaders in pass receiving, Bill started out as a defensive specialist in the days of two platoons. He accidentally got a chance to show how he could catch a ball early in his sophomore season and he's been playing two ways ever since.

Before that sophomore year was over he'd set a school mark with 37 pass receptions. In six games so far this year, McKenna has caught 33 for 402 yards and four touchdowns.

Emerald Squad Is Cut To 13

MANISTIQUE—Thirteen Manistique High School athletes have won berths on the Emerald varsity basketball squad, Coach Rudie Brandstrom said today.

The lineup includes Bob Hastings, Ken Dixner, Edward Bernier, Bob Corson, Bill Holm and Don Anderson, all of whom are returning lettermen. Bernier is a junior and the other four are seniors.

Others on the varsity are juniors Dave Cook, Jim Gero, George Phillips, Larry Larson, Richard Morton, Ralph Williams and Elmer Reickhoff.

Beginning Wednesday, the squad will practice after supper each weekday, Brandstrom said. The Emeralds play their first game at home Dec. 3 against the American Soo.

Podoley Is Shoo-In For Scoring Honors

(By The Associated Press)
Despite a three-game "slump," Central Michigan's Jim Podoley is a virtual shoo-in for 1954 scoring honors among Michigan's collegiate football players.

The fleet halfback has been held to only two touchdowns in the last three games, but he still is far ahead of the field.

According to figures compiled by The Associated Press, Podoley has 103 points on 17 touchdowns and one extra point.

Yatchak Of Wakefield Heads U. P. Coaches

IRON RIVER—Roman Yatchak, athletic director at Wakefield high school, was elected president of the Upper Peninsula Coaches' Association during their two-day annual meeting held here.

Yatchak, who will hold the post for the ensuing year, succeeds Harry Monson, former coach and now principal of Iron River high school. Ed Kukuk, Stambaugh basketball coach, was named vice-president, and Oscar Wassberg, of Negaunee, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Athletics Transfer Means Minor Shift

NEW YORK (AP)—Transfer of the Philadelphia Athletics to Kansas City will mean the relocation of at least one minor league club.

Under baseball rules the Kansas City Blues of the American Association, owned by the New York Yankees, will have first call on any other minor league city.

Denver, reported to be first in line, is a member of the class A Western League.

There also is a possibility the Yankees will enter into an agreement with the St. Louis Cardinals in which the Cards would move their Columbus, Ohio, American Association franchise to Omaha—another Western League city—and the Yanks shift the Blues to Columbus.

Rookie Frank Sely Leads Pro Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Less than a year out of the collegiate ranks, Frank Sely of the Baltimore Bullets today led the scorers of the National Basketball Assn. with 125 points in five games, an average of 25.0.

Sely, who rewrote the college record books while at Furman University, held a 36-point edge over Bob Cousy of Boston, who has played one less game.

The scoring champion of the past two seasons, Neil Johnston of Philadelphia, scored 26 points in the only game he has played.

Utah Fighter Keeps Ring Record Intact

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene (Cyclone) Fuller, a good, tough and aggressive 23-year old middleweight from West Jordan, Utah, made his perfect record 25-0 Monday night by drubbing Jackie La Bua, at Eastern Parkway Arena for a lopsided 10-round decision.

As a result, matchmaker Teddy Brenner signed the Rocky Mountain copper miner for a Dec. 20 tilt with Rocky Castellani, fourth ranking 160-pound contender.

"Castellani, Olson, or anyone," said the Fuller, "it's all the same to me. All I want to know is did the fans like it? It was my first time on television."

The only thing the Korean War vet didn't do was floor or knockout the strong-jawed, 22-year old New Yorker. Jackie has been stopped only once. His record is 23-4.

Powerful UCLA Retains Top Spot In Grid Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. The Associated Press

UCLA retained its ranking as the nation's leading college football team in this week's Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

UCLA was first on 117 of the 300 ballots. Ohio State got 80 first-place votes. The first five teams held the same places they occupied last week.

Miami of Florida, suffering its first defeat at Auburn's hands after six straight victories, fell from sixth place to 11th. Purdue also disappeared from the top 10 after taking a 25-14 licking from Iowa. Iowa, 12th last week, moved up to ninth and Navy to 10th.

Army's 48-7 shellacking of previously unbeaten Yale lifted the Cadets from seventh to sixth.

Two Lettermen Back At Ishpeming This Season

ISHPEMING—Two weeks from tonight Ishpeming High's basketball Hematites will take the floor with an entirely new starting lineup to face Stambaugh in the first game of Coach C. C. Watson's 32nd year with the Blue and White.

Only two varsity lettermen remain from last year's roster. Seven seniors, eight juniors, two sophomores and one freshman are working out under the dean of Upper Peninsula cage coaches, who must again build a team without too much height.

Four On Varsity
A total of four were members of the varsity squad last year, while eight played with Coach Lee Goodney's "B" team.

Glenn Kajjala and Bruce Kelly are the lone letter winners last winter who are back for this year's team. Jim Kosonen, who may be the tallest member of the 1954-55 aggregation, and Warren Matthews also were with the varsity, while Bernie Bjorne was called up from the reserves at the end of the season.

Eight seniors paced last year's team and held down all the starting berths.

Seven Seniors
This year's squad, before cutting, includes seven seniors. In addition to Kajjala, Kelly, Kosonen and Matthews, seniors are John Ruusi, who played "B" team ball two years ago, Ronald Ryso and Jim Maki.

There are eight juniors, and six of them, including Bjorne, were with the "B" team most of last year. They are Lou Clark, George Denofre, Ray Nault, Thomas Tisch and Tim Zhulke. Jon Salo and John Rinne complete the junior slate.

Both the sophomores with the squad were reserves last year. Ralph LaPlante and Dave Palo Maki. The lone freshman working with the first team is Robert Willis.

Hockey Owners Will Discuss Hawks Plight

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Hockey League owners were scheduled to meet here today to discuss the problem of the Chicago Black Hawks, who have not been drawing at the gate for several years.

The Hawks took over the cellar eight years ago and since then have finished last six times.

The owners also will talk over the plight of the Boston Bruins who have won but one game to date and occupy last place one point behind the Hawks.

Team Spirit Is UCLA's Secret

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coach Red Sanders of UCLA may have put his finger on why his Bruins are the No. 1 football team of the nation.

"This is a team in the truest sense of the word," Sanders told the Southern California Football Writers Assn. Monday. "It has tremendous spirit. The players have made great strides in individual improvement. This team has made fewer mistakes and committed fewer fouls than any team we've ever had."

UCLA, undefeated has only one more game to play — on Nov. 20 against Southern California, the Pacific Coast Conference representative in the Rose Bowl.

Jess Hill, Southern California coach whose team has yet to face Washington, UCLA, Notre Dame and the Big Ten representative in the Rose Bowl, said:

"We certainly don't feel Ohio State or whoever represents the Big Ten is going to throw a scare into the Trojans."

Murray Warmath Revives Old Glory Of Minnesota Football

By JIM KLOBUCHAR
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Murray Warmath, a steel and velvet southerner who came to Minnesota unheralded and almost unwanted, today was a resounding answer to skeptics who wrote off the Gophers as an extinct power.

With two games remaining, against tough Iowa and Wisconsin, Warmath's split T already has produced as many victories as Minnesota ever won since the lush championship days that halted suddenly in 1941.

Save for a spectacularly bad showing against Michigan, Minnesota today would be unbeaten in seven games and a hot contender for the Big Ten championship.

Hard-Handed Coach
Warmath has kindled the Minnesota revival with hard-handed coaching methods he learned from Red Blaik and Bob Neyland in his apprenticeship at Army and Tennessee and later tested in two years as head coach at Mississippi State.

The big fellow couldn't have entered under harder circumstances here. The old grads and casual fans wanted Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson, a Gopher alumnus, or someone close to the Minnesota picture, when Wes Fesler quit last year.

He has juggled manpower, installed, then discarded, a two-platoon system, experimented with quarterbacks in midseason and generally manipulated his talent with impromptu shrewdness.

McNamara Salvation
Warmath and observers here hadn't looked for a good team until 1956, when one of the best freshman squads in Minnesota history matures.

Warmath's real salvation this year has been a fierce young man named Bob McNamara, for two years an offensive end and safetyman who last year was switched to right half.

During the first part of this season he was being called one of the finest right halfbacks at Minnesota in the last 20 years. But injuries overtook Minnesota fullbacks and Warmath asked McNamara to make another shift.

Of McNamara he says: "This must be the greatest back in the country and after just two games I'm sure is the best fullback I have ever seen."

Fred Saigh Enters Fight To Control Montgomery Ward

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Fred Saigh, former owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, said he has entered the battle for control of Montgomery Ward & Co. with a 21-point program for complete reorganization of the firm.

"I have made an extensive survey and find that the majority of the stockholders don't wish to vote for Sewell Avery, present chairman of the board," Saigh said.

"At the same time they don't seem to think that Louis E. Wolfson is the answer, either," he said.

Wolfson, Florida businessman and president of New York Shipbuilding and Capital Transit of Washington, D. C., has announced his plans for gaining control.

Saigh said he has asked stockholders in a Wall Street Journal advertisement not to give their proxy votes until they have investigated his plan. He said the same announcement will appear in several newspapers.

Saigh, a stockholder in Montgomery Ward, declined today to name his associates in his plan.

"I will include in my proxy a resolution to change the by-laws and make it possible to elect an entire new board of directors," Saigh said.

Under present laws control of the firm couldn't be gained for two years because only three of the nine directors of the board can be replaced by stockholders in a vote due April 22, 1955.

"Wolfson has filed suit in Chicago to change the by-laws so that all nine may be elected this year. But this can be done by a vote of stockholders and I intend to do it without litigation," Saigh said.

Saigh's program includes a retirement plan to "weed out" older executives, a search for the best management brains, and the investment in expansion of what he called the firm's vast cash reserves.

"I intend to put this money to work by setting up more retail outlets, adding grocery supermarkets to present stores where practicable, spending 20 million dollars to modernize present stores, weeding out unproductive stores, and winning back customers with an advertising program."

Saigh was a practicing attorney and real estate operator before gaining ownership of the Cardinals. He served six months of a 15-month sentence for federal income tax evasion and was released on parole November 1953, from the prison in Terre Haute, Ind.

Claim They Do Not Burn Water

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—When they turn water into their new industrial heaters, two inventors here have trouble convincing people they are not trying to burn the water. They superheat steam in white-hot tubes and use it to atomize oil which is the real fuel.

George W. Jackson and Bill G. Daugherty say their method gets more heat out of the oil. They have produced a number of the big heaters and hope to develop one small enough to heat an ordinary home.

Big trouble is, things get so hot in their burners that metals usually put into furnaces won't stand up. For the small heaters they plan to use metals which have been developed for jet engines.

The Escanaba Hockey Association thanks most sincerely all merchants and others who donated food items and made possible the big "hockey feed" at the Sherman Hotel today. Without your help in preparing for this lunch and/or dinner, it is doubtful whether the city would be represented in the Northern Michigan-Ontario Hockey League this winter.

This year more than ever the community should get behind the Hawks and support them all season. Escanaba rewrote sports history in the Upper Peninsula last season by winning the League championship after only four years in the league. This is phenomenal!

Let's make sure our community spirit matches the team spirit that won the title last year and will defend it this year. With the whole community behind it, the team might repeat this season.

If you have not yet bought a "turkey ticket" (all you can eat for $1.25), don't hesitate. Tickets will be sold at the door, too, and you may dine anytime between now and 11 p. m. Don't miss the fun! Be sure to sign your name on the back of the ticket. You may have the lucky ticket.
